Managing Your Money is an Important Life Skill

Our four-week boot camp for high schoolers teaches the Five Core Competencies of financial literacy: Budgeting, Spending, Earning, Saving, and Investing. We'll explain the real-world factors that affect your economic security, including choice of career, economic trends, and random things that happen in life. Each week has guest speakers, activities, and a financial simulation game.

We invite parents to attend at no charge to enhance the learning experience.

Founded in 1993 and based in Elk Grove, CA, SASF is a nonprofit that mentors young people through educational and sports programs.

SASF Strive for Strength provides a safe and social environment where participants can learn essential life skills. For more information, contact Ted Fong, Program Director, at sasfprograms@gmail.com.
